Online Safety for Children

Tuesday, April 25th, 2017

6:00 PM in LCS Library

Maine State Police Detective Abbe Chabot with the Computer Crimes Unit will hold a community discussion in reference to guiding our children through the ever-present world of social media.

Our children live in two worlds, the face-to-face reality and the online world of cell phone and computer communication. As parents and community members, we are faced with keeping our children safe in their interactions with either world, and educating them to the dangers and long-term repercussions of their online activity.

Trooper Chabot's presentation will include an overview of social media trends for parents, the presence of criminal activity in a digital world, and important safety tips to guide our children and families through the dangers of online communication. She will walk parents through some current apps and how parents can supervise their child's use of those apps.

Cyberbullying, sexploitation, visually aggressive images and human trafficking will be highlighted, with ample time for a candid question and answer session.

We look forward to seeing you on Tuesday, April 25th, 2017 at 6:00 PM
